Profile: Beatrice

Electronic music producer Beatrice Lewis is one of the most exciting multifaceted artists in the current Australian music landscape. She is a songwriter, performer and producer of one of Australia's most electrifying dance acts, Haiku Hand; a songwriter & producer for award-winning indigenous band Kardajala Kirridarra, and enjoys a flourishing career as a solo artist.

Beatrice has performed at major electronic music festivals from Pitch to MONA FOMA, and won the 2019 APRA's Personal Development award in the Dance/Electronic category. For the past eight years, Beatrice has been a composer, workshop facilitator with a LGBTQAI producers training program and strong advocate for indigenous women's music throughout Australia.

Her music explores ethereal spaces through vocal looping, synth and electronic beats. Beatrice reaches for the transcendent and hypnotic, the sacred and the sensate: a crossover of converging states of consciousness.
