Cradle of Life

Profile: Jessi Rebel

Jessi Rebel is a proud Wiradjuri person, residing on Wadawurrung Country. Jessi grew up on Biripi Country, learning to surf from a young age. Connection to Country and Sea Country is a strong influence on the works they create, reflecting on the relationships we have to these ever-changing and versatile landscapes that hold so much life and truth.

Jessi has a background as a youth/social worker so also draws a lot of inspiration from interpersonal relationships and the intersection of all things. Jessi's artworks often depict flowing line work and bold shapes and colours, each carrying their own meaning and story. Jessi works collaboratively in community, engaging in murals and workshops with youth and students and loves bringing other's stories to life through art. Jessi has recently graduated with a Bachelor of Arts Therapy and believes creativity and art has the power to heal the world, both within us and around us.

Jessi's work will be exhibited at Uniting Queenscliff during the Sacrededge Festival 2026.
